

Here in my Back Yard....

Last year Larghan Park reopened after a major redesign, won a Green Flag award and was enjoyed by residents and visitors alike. Late last month the new facilities were expanded to include a community orchard for the benefit of all who visit. Twenty five trees, including pears, plums, cooking apples, crab apples and a “Bloody Ploughmans” apple variety will all be available in years to come.

Richard Brough, Tree and Woodland Officer for Perth and Kinross Council assisted with the project. “As Tree and Woodland Officer for PKC, I met with members of the local community at Larghan Park where we discussed the feasibility and location for new fruit trees.” He said.

Coupar Angus has long had associations with local fruit growing, as seen in this town map opposite dating back to the late 1800’s. Perhaps you can spot an old tree in your own back yard?
